

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE.

July 1, 2019

Morgan Hill, California – As of today, July 1, 2019, Child Development Centers (CDC) and Continuing Development Incorporated (CDI) will merge into one single nonprofit organization, supporting the advancement of our operations while continuing to enhance our child and family focused services.

In May, we were approved by the Department of Education Early Learning and Care Division, to merge as one company, Continuing Development Inc. (CDI). In preparation for this merger, we have worked to better align operations, in order to drive forward and grow into future endeavors.

Susan Dumars, President of CDI, stated, “With over 40 years of nonprofit experience in childcare services, we are excited for the opportunity that this merger will bring for our agency and communities. As we streamline our operations, it is our goal to continue to develop and grow with the ongoing needs of our families, schools and communities. Through our three business lines (childcare, camp, and family support programs), we intend to better serve our clients, while remaining true to the philosophies that ground us.”

We look forward to continuing to understand and serve our families and communities as one integrated nonprofit agency. As CDC is absorbed into CDI, our programs, facilities, staffing, hours of operation, and all other aspects of our services will remain unaffected.

CDC and CDI have a long-provided quality childcare services and community partnership in California. In addition to our licensed childcare centers, CDI provides resource and referral services and Children’s Waiting Rooms in communities throughout California, as well as day camps in select areas. For information about CDI’s other services, visit www.choicesforchildren.org and www.youngsetclub.org. For more information about our overall agency, visit www.cdicdc.org

Media Contact:
Michelle Hoffmann
Communications Manager
Mhoffmann@cdicdc.org
(669) 286-7162